

Tiara Tabloid

Mayor Sarion appoints Countess De La Soule as Deputy Mayor. The women are all a-buzz with the news and the men seem to be saying they expected something like this. The city of Tiara has prospered under Sarion and she promises nothing will change. This reporter asks then why the change?

New Group: Leaders or bleeders. Apparently they can't even get a coherent agreement as to their company name. This reporter thinks they will die before they make any decision, "the monster will have already eaten them".

Weather predicted: Cold and wet.

Heads will roll: Or did they already. Sources tell us that one of Raven's adventurer's was given a head of a woman at the gala last month. It is rumored to be the adventurer's sister and sources tell us the mysterious deliverer of the head was taken under guard to the Courts of Ahk for a secret trial and there, she was subjected to powerful magic that changed her and made her forget everything. Was this a murder or some secret assassination or a message? We will keep digging and let you know.

The Durara caravan brought many spices and rare items from the east. Check your local retailers for specials and unique items.

Your sister has one husband.

The local Shipwright's guild is hiring, more boats are needed to be built to move cargo south. Citadel Ship building is the leader here in Tiara and is looking for strong backs.

The Durara caravan hired 15 new people for its journey south and then to Opal fire. We wish these brave men and women well.

A new inn, designed by Victor Damarara will be built across the Talia River just south of where the Leta River splits off. The construction is about to begin and they seek to acquire workers and materials. The construction is said to cost over 100,000 gc. On the lower floor is going to be a restaurant and casino with balconies and windows overlooking the river north and south. The rooms will be on the 2nd floor and each will have a balcony and a view of the river. One key investor is our former asst. Mayor Darnak Khorshkan. He says the inn is almost paid for and we think once everyone sees the splendor of the construction that finding the rest of the cost will be no problem.

Merchant's Carts stolen. Over the past week, 2 merchants have reported their carts stolen right from under their noses. One can only wonder about the complete lack of business competence that these cart owners have to allow this to happen.

Local alchemist accidentally sells poison instead of healing brew. This reporter believes he should go to jail, but the town guard has ruled it an accident.

A fire of mysterious origins burned down a warehouse near the Blackstone Way Church of Light building in the docks district.

A talking statue appeared in the dungeon entrance room. This statue is 6 feet tall. It is made of white granite. The statue is of a dead local hero Doris Baran a dwarf. Its speech is an old dwarven dialect but still does not make sense.
